Fears of 3rd wave shadow outlook for auto sector

Preetam Mohan Singh, senior vice-president, Automotive, Praxis Global Alliance, said because Covid-19 spread into tier-2 cities this time and depleted savings of crores of Indians in urban and rural India, sales of entry-level cars (costing up to ₹4 lakh) and two-wheelers will get negatively impacted. “But cars priced above ₹6-odd-lakh will continue to sell well because people in this segment have cash. Marriages haven’t stopped and people will start to travel, but at the bottom of the pyramid there is a major economic impact this time,” he said. “The silver line is that goods carriers, especially LCVs, may see rising demand because last-mile connectivity is still required.” Over the next few months, within CVs, analysts say the impact on buses will be substantial, on M&HCVs moderate, and on LCVs the least. Som Kapoor, partner, Automotive Sector, EY India, said the intensity of the second wave’s impact will become clearer in about a month. “The second wave has hit closer to home,” he said. “The level of confidence people have on our medical infrastructure and with the rollout of vaccines is low, people are anticipating a third wave. Instead of buying a car, you will try to save cash.” While he added that sales of HCVs will get better — highway construction grew by 74% in April-May 2021 to 1,470 km or 24.1 km per day — two-wheeler sales in rural areas will be negatively impacted. “Although there is a huge two-wheeler appetite in small towns and villages, because Covid-19 hit even rural areas, people may not want to open their wallets in anticipation of the third wave,” Kapoor said. On the third wave concerns, Saket Mehra, partner, Grant Thornton Bharat, said fear surrounds consumers’ thoughts. “The sentiment would take time to pick up growth. “Extended plant shutdowns and reduced footfalls at dealerships have resulted in a double-digit de-growth month-on-month in the current year. Increased healthcare spend, lower penetration of mediclaim facilities and lower disposable income in the hands of people particularly in rural areas might result in slower demand recovery for two-wheelers.”

Brands rethinking ad strategies

The league, even though split into two parts this year, is still expected to draw advertiser interest. “IPL remains a strong media property for brands. The touchpoints are expected to change because the matches will not be played in India resulting in the terms of deals changing to some extent,” says Anand Bhadkamkar, CEO, Dentsu India. Official broadcaster Star India was aiming to earn about ₹3,500 crore in advertising revenue this year with ad spots being sold for about ₹13 lakh per 10 seconds. When the league resumes in the second half of the year, seasonal categories such as consumer durables including fans, ACs and coolers, or beverage brands selling carbonated drinks and fruit juices may stay away, say analysts. The festive season may attract a different set of brands. “Since the matches will be a precursor to the festive season, apparel brands, two-wheelers, four-wheeler brands, etc, may find the remaining matches a valuable avenue on which to advertise,” says Sandeep Goyal, founder, Mogae Media. Brands may not be able to exit deals inked with the broadcaster because the event has not been cancelled entirely; thus, neither party will be able to invoke the force majeure clause. Therefore, brands are finding other ways to utilise their investment. Siddharth Devnani, co-founder and director, SoCheers, says, “Advertisers are thinking of diverting their IPL media buys to sub-brands that may become relevant in September-October.” upGrad, a brand that chose to stay out of IPL 2021 after investing in IPL 2020, is considering advertising on IPL-Phase 2. “We expect the mood of the nation to be quite different during the September-October period. We are weighing our options with advertising on the second half of IPL,” says Arjun Mohan, CEO, India, upGrad. Participation of international players from countries like England and West Indies and the final schedule of ICC Men’s T20 World Cup 2021 are two critical factors that will influence a brand’s decision on investing in IPL. “The quality of IPL matches might suffer if overseas players do not take part. Therefore, many clients may want to put their ad money into the World Cup instead of a depleted IPL,” says Goyal.

expects most ODMs and OEMs to take advantage of this route, as the long-term outlook for India is still strong. While the commercial sector remains a key focus, PCs in education and for consumers are future hotspots,” he added. During Q1 2021, India’s PC shipments, including tablets, grew 72% Y-o-Y to reach 4 million units, comprising 517,000 desktops, 2.5 million notebooks, 930,000 tablets and 43,000 workstations. Almost all categories grew well, mainly due to a poor Q1 2020, when supply was hit due to pandemic restrictions in China. Notebooks (including mobile workstations) were the major growth driver, as shipments grew 119% over Q1 2020. Tablets also had one of their biggest quarters since 2016, with 52% year-on-year growth. Desktop shipments fell 6% to 517,000 units due to a fall in popularity for the form factor.

PC shipments under cloud as economic activity down

Shipments of ‘gaming-capable’ machines grew almost 65% Y-o-Y as the pandemic gave rise to a need for new forms of entertainment, given movie theatres, theme parks, pubs and restaurants were closed for much of the year, he noted. Besides, Aithal noted that India could soon become a major manufacturing hub for PCs, as the government has extended its production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme for smartphone manufacturing to the PC industry. “Manufacturers are expected to get incentives for laptops manufactured and priced above ₹30,000 ($400) and tablets priced above ₹15,000 ($200). GST cut for Covid test kits, drugs, equipment

“It’s not an issue with the people (taxation of vaccines) as they are not paying any tax... it’s free for them,” revenue secretary Tarun Bajaj said. On Monday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced that the Union government will buy 75% of jabs from vaccine manufacturers, including 25% of the state quota, and give it for free to the state governments for vaccination.
